1.Zenniz Overview

What is Zenniz?

Zenniz makes any tennis court smart with the accurate ball and player tracking.

With Zenniz, players and coaches can get pro-level stats, automatic line calls, shot speeds, interactive drills, and video of their game.

How does Zenniz work?

The Zenniz system works by tracking the ball and players using 30 sound sensors and two video cameras.

On the court, the system is used with the Zenniz device touchscreen. Players get feedback on scores, shot speeds, line calls, and drills on the LED screen.

Players can keep track of their games and drills with the Zenniz app available for iPhone and Android smartphones.

2. Installing Zenniz

Go to zenniz.com/getstarted for a video walkthrough of how to install Zenniz.

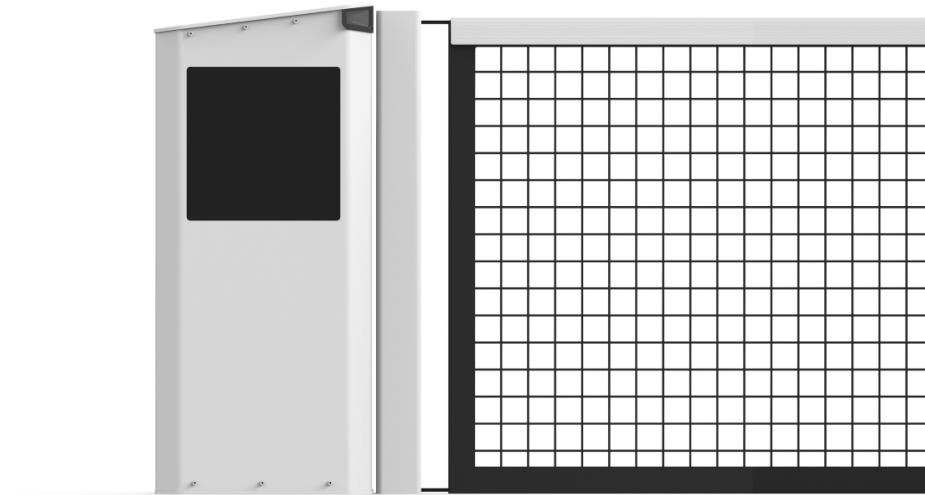

2.1 What's in the box

The Zenniz box includes:

- The Zenniz device with a power cord
- Two microphone cables with 30 sound sensors
- Speaker and cable for calibrating the device
- Two baseline cameras and connecting cables
- Fasteners

2.2 Installing the device

Place the Zenniz device as close to the net post as possible.

Make sure the Zenniz cameras are towards the court and there is nothing obstructing them from the court.

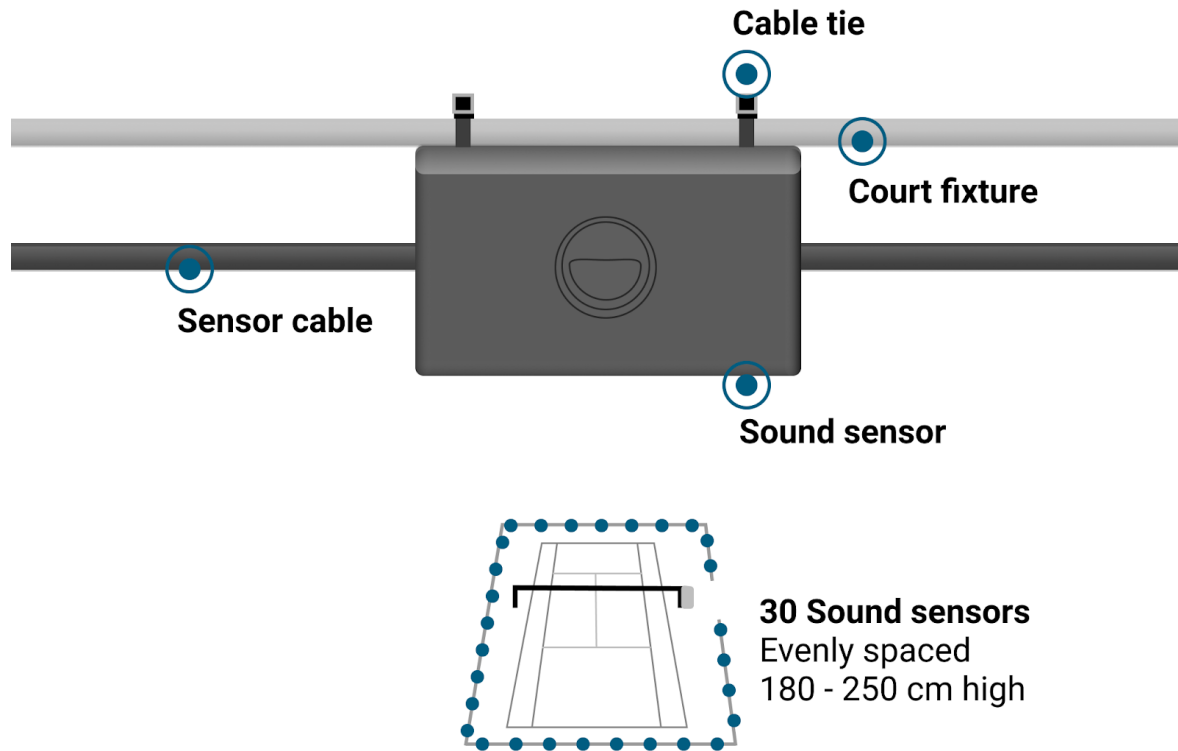

You can place the Zenniz device on either side of the net post. It's best to choose the side that has the best access to electricity and the most space for players to walk around.

Make sure the device sits securely on the court and that's there is nothing between the device and the court surface. For physical connection you need 1) detach bottom plate (6 screws) 2) fasten bottom plate securely on the court (4 screws) 3) attach body back to bottom plate.

It's also possible to position the device up to 1 meter from the net post.

In this case, make sure the Zenniz cameras have a clear view of the court.

2.3 Installing the audio sensors

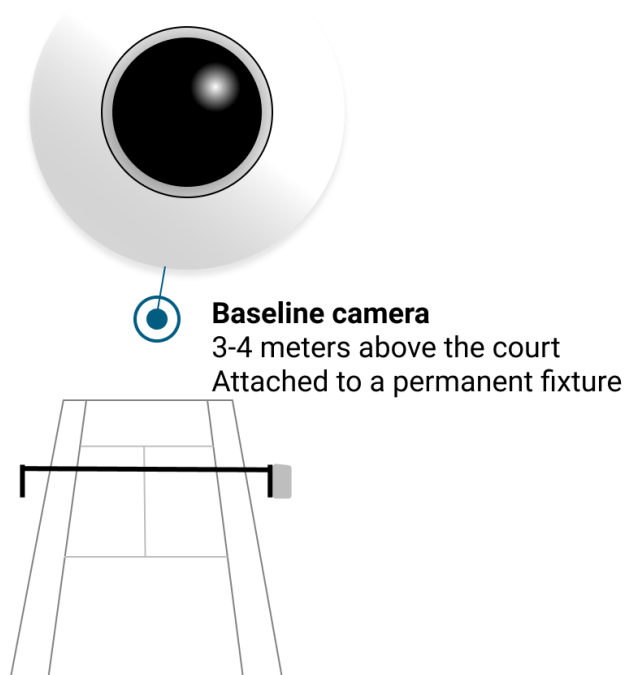

Install the audio sensors around the court.

Install the audio sensors at roughly 180 - 250 cm height around the court. Attach the sensors to any permanent fixture (wall, fence, railing etc) surrounding the court. Make sure the connecting cable is not hanging loosely between the sensors.

If there are no permanent fixtures around the court, you can, for example, install a cable around the court to which you can install the sensors.

We recommend using the cable ties that come with Zenniz to attach the audio sensors.

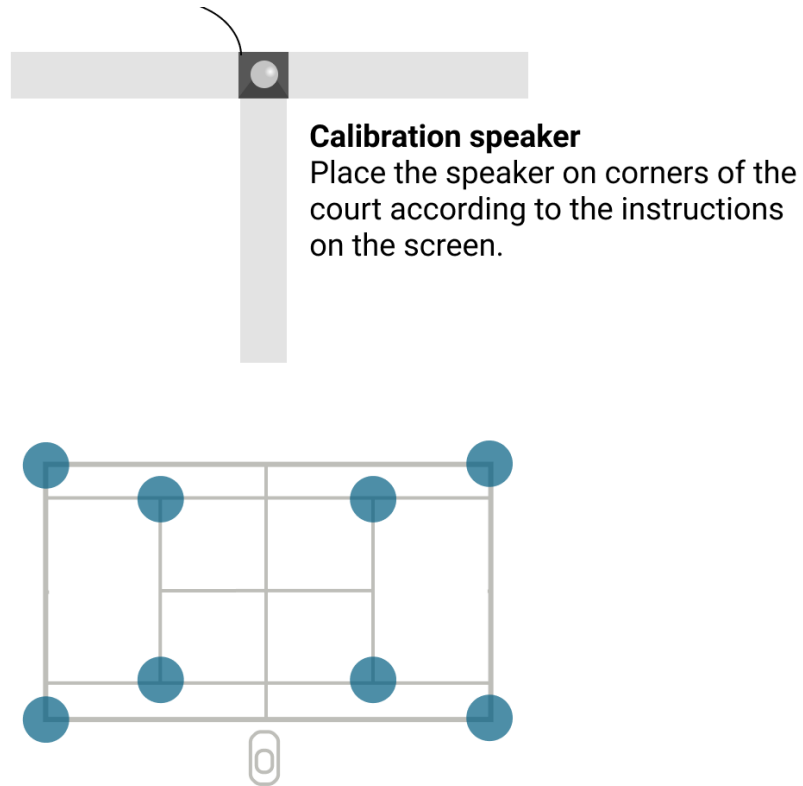

2.4 Installing the baseline cameras

Install the baseline cameras behind both baselines.

Attach the baseline camera securely to any permanent fixture behind the baseline.

2.5 Calibrating the device

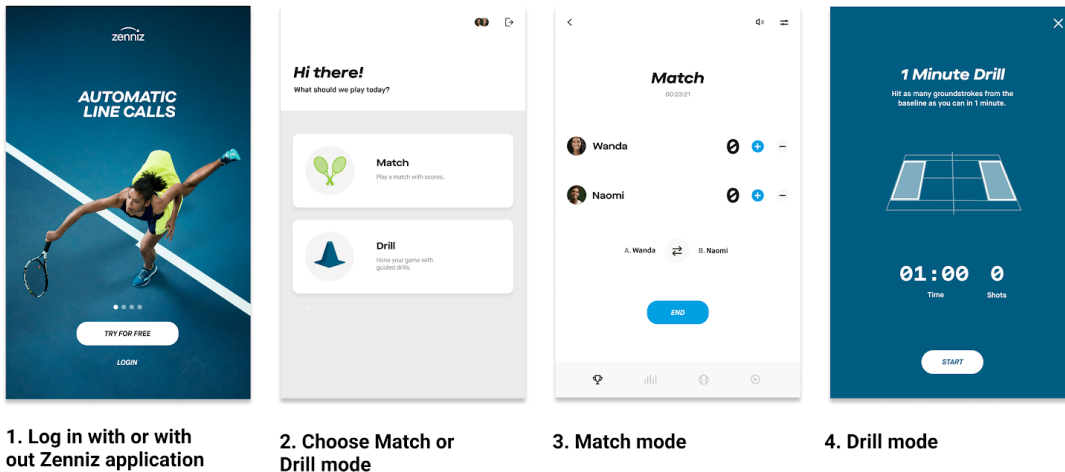

Plug the Zenniz device into a power outlet to turn it on.

Follow the on-screen instructions to calibrate the device and finish the installation.

In the calibration, the device will ask you to place a small speaker on different corners of the court to calibrate the audio sensors.

3. Using Zenniz

1. After installing and calibrating the device, turn Zenniz on by plugging it into a power source
2. You can use Zenniz by logging in with your Zenniz app (available on Apple and Android app stores) or by trying it without logging in. If you log in with the app, you are able to view stats and video from your sessions later.
3. After logging in, follow on-screen instructions to play a match using Zenniz or complete individual drills
4. In match mode, you can add scores for either player, see your stats, shot placements and video from your match. After the match, logged in players can see their stats and video from the Zenniz app
5. In drill mode, you can choose between several interactive drills (including Target Area serving and Free Serve). During the drill, you can see stats and feedback on the Zenniz LED-screen. After completing the drill
