Terms of Service

Pushd is the developer of Aura (the "Application"), a connected digital picture frame that automatically sends pictures from your phone to your frame.

Please read this terms of use agreement (the "Terms") carefully. By accessing or using the application or any websites of Pushd, Inc., its affiliates or agents ("pushd") with links to these terms (collectively, the "Site") in any way, including using the services and resources available or enabled via the website or application (each a "Service" and collectively, the "Services") by pushd or users of the website or application ("Users"), clicking on the "I Accept" button, completing the registration process, and/or merely browsing the website, or downloading the application, you represent that: you have read, understand, and agree to be bound by the terms; you are of legal age to form a binding contract with pushd; you have the authority to enter into the terms personally or on behalf of the company you have named as the user, and to bind that company to the terms. The term "you" refers to the individual or legal entity, as applicable, identified as the user when you registered on the website. If you do not agree to be bound by the terms, you may not access or use this website, the application, or the services. The terms require the use of arbitration on an individual basis to resolve disputes, rather than jury trials or class actions, and also limit the remedies available to you in the event of a dispute.

PLEASE NOTE THAT The Terms are subject to change by pushd in its sole discretion at any time. When changes are made, pushd will make a new copy of

FCC Interference Statement

This device complies with Part 15 of the FCC Rules. Operation is subject to the following two conditions:

1. This device may not cause harmful interference.
2. This device must accept any interference received, including interference that may cause undesired operation.

This equipment has been tested and found to comply with the limits for a Class B digital device, pursuant to Part 15 of the FCC Rules. These limits are designed to provide reasonable protection against harmful interference in a residential installation. This equipment generates, uses and can radiate radio frequency energy and, if not installed and used in accordance with the instructions, may cause harmful interference to radio communications. However, there is no guarantee that interference will not occur in a particular installation.

If this equipment does cause harmful interference to radio or television reception, which can be determined by turning the equipment off and on, the user is encouraged to try to correct the interference by one or more of the following measures:

- Reorient or relocate the receiving antenna.
- Increase the separation between the equipment and receiver.
- Connect the equipment into an outlet on a circuit different from that to which the receiver is connected.
- Consult the dealer or an experienced radio/TV technician for help.

FCC Caution: Any changes or modifications not expressly approved by the party responsible for compliance could void the user's authority to operate this equipment.

This transmitter must not be co-located or operating in conjunction with any other antenna or transmitter.
