NOTE: This equipment has been tested and found to comply with the limits for a Class digital device, pursuant to part 15 of the FCC Rules. These limits are designed to provide reasonable protection against harmful interference when this equipment is operated in a residential installation. This equipment generates, uses, and can radiate radio frequency energy and, if not properly installed and used, may cause harmful interference to nearby wireless communications equipment. However, there is no guarantee that interference will not occur in a particular installation. If this equipment does cause harmful interference to your radio or television reception, you can try to correct the interference by one or more of the following measures:

- Reorient or relocate the receiving antenna.
- Increase the separation between the equipment and receiver.
- Connect the equipment into an outlet on a circuit different from that to which the receiver is connected.
- Consult the dealer or an experienced radio/TV technician for help.

If the measures do not solve the problem, you may wish to contact the manufacturer for changes or modifications not expressly approved by the party responsible for compliance with these rules or the user's authority to operate the equipment.

This device complies with Part 15 of the FCC Rules. Reception is subject to the following conditions:

- This device may not cause harmful interference, and
- This device must accept any interference received, including interference that may cause undesired operation.
