

The label is located on the bottom of the product, adjacent to the USB Type-C port.

The label is permanently affixed to the device using a durable adhesive. It is designed to remain in place throughout the product's normal lifetime and cannot be readily removed by the end user.