RE: FCC ID: AK8PCG5A1L_ATCB001028
Attention: Yoshiko Mizuta

I have a few comments on this Application.

1. Please clearly identify the system. The system appears to contain a WLAN and a Bluetooth. However, neither the external photos nor the operational description clearly state this fact nor do they show where the Bluetooth device is located in the laptop. Please clearly show where the Bluetooth device is located in the laptop and please clearly show where the antenna(s) for the Bluetooth device is located in the laptop. Please also adequately explain the application configuration to reduce confusion about what it is that is being certified.
2. Please note that this appears to be a certification for both the WLAN and the Bluetooth. However, the Bluetooth appears to have been tested as a module (stand alone) and the WLAN appears to have been tested as an LMA (inside the host). The same ID cannot be for both devices in this situation. In the configuration you present, the Bluetooth Module would have to have its own ID and the LMA WLAN configuration would have to have its own ID. Both devices must be tested inside the host if the same ID is to be applied. What is the application for? Please explain.
3. Please provide a 731 that addresses the fact that there are two devices. Is this application for a WLAN LMA with a Bluetooth transmitter in side under its own ID. Or is this an LMA for both the WLAN and Bluetooth???? Please clearly identify what the application for certification is for.
