

A small black electronic device, possibly a microcontroller or sensor module, is placed on the table. It has several wires connected to it, including a black power cable and a white cable. The device is positioned to the left of the label.

S0275