

A black, rectangular electronic device, possibly a handheld calculator or a small digital scale, is shown from a side-on perspective. The top surface is covered with a grid of small, square buttons. The front face is smooth and black, with a small, semi-circular cutout on the left side. A white rectangular label with the text "label location" is positioned on the front face.

label location