

Tune-Up Procedure – 83306

Regarding tune-up procedures, there is nothing that can be adjusted or tuned by the user. There are some factory adjustments that are made internally and involve choosing resistors and setting one potentiometer that controls a variable attenuator. So, even at the factory, nothing is actually “tuned”. Therefore, there is no tune-up procedure.