Firewall Port Settings

The built-in Windows firewall opens ports to communicate with the Digital Entertainer HD. For other firewalls, you might need to open these ports:

- TCP: 49156, 49157, 49158, 49159
- UDP: 49152, 49153, 49154, 49155

Accessing Your Digital Media

Windows System Passwords

If your system requires a password on startup you will need to use one of the following access methods:

- Recommended: Enable Guest Access on PCs which have a startup password. To do this go to Settings/Control Panel/User Accounts, and select “Enable Guest Access”
- Manually enter passwords on each iMedia Device connected to the system.
- Remove the password from the main “administrator account”.

Macintosh OSX

Turn off the Macintosh Firewall: Select the sharing icon from system preferences.

Click Firewall, select Stop, and verify that “Firewall off” is displayed.

Select the sharing icon from system preferences and select the Windows Sharing check box, Make sure that “Windows Sharing On” is displayed.

Once the system is up and running, for better security you can configure your OSX firewall to allow file access while blocking other network ports. For file sharing you must allow access through TCP ports 139 and 445, and UDP ports 137 and 138.

Linux

You will need to load and install a Samba server. On Redhat 9 systems, click the Red Hat button and select “System Settings / Server Settings / Samba Server.” Click “Add” from the dialog that pops up. On other systems, you may need to install the Samba server (smbd) manually and modify the samba configuration file (/etc/smb.conf on most systems – check “man smbd”). If you do not have Samba installed, please see www.samba.org.
