

The power level is set at the factory as a default value.
The level is not act as the user-serviceable part then there is no issue and provision for the user tune-up procedure.