To whom it may Concern:

Taiwan Coiler International Corp. would like the following exhibits treated as confidential material:

1. Amplifier schematic drawing

The design of this amplifier system, as used as an In Building repeater for trunked radio systems is of unique and novel design. As there is no other amplifier product that incorporates most of the unique features of this unit, we believe we have a competitive advantage over other companies, and the release of this information would provide a blueprint for competition from others.
